Co-x3 Notes/Wireframe Changes Version 2 - Rating Integration, Filters/Sorting
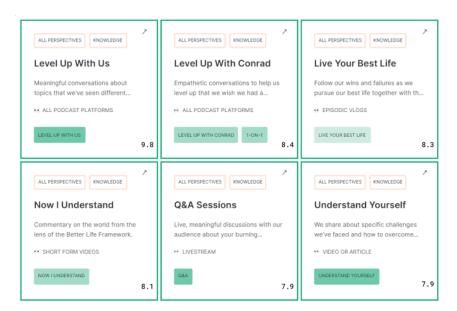

Ratings and Reviews Integration:

1. Add a section for each product/program/content in which users can submit a rating. This rating can be between 1-10 or a 0-5 star rating.
2. We will then collect this information in our database and output the average rating on the bottom right side of each tile.
3. Written ratings can be incorporated on the bottom of the page and could possess some sort of scrolling perspective.

0-5 Star Rating:

1-10 Rating:

Written Scrollable Reviews:

In this episode, we breakdown our relationships with our parents as adults, and how to understand them from different perspectives as described in the Better Life Framework by the Co-x3 Family Foundation. This episode will help anyone struggling with managing their relationship with parents and their expectations.

Database Design:
1. Have a table in which stores the id for each type of product/program/content, the name/title for each type of product/program/content and the average calculation of all ratings being stored for that respective product/program/content.
2. Another table with a foreign key in respect to new ratings being added which will be linked to the original table in which outputs the average.
3. Each time a rating is added, the average is recalculated and the updated rating will be displayed on the website.
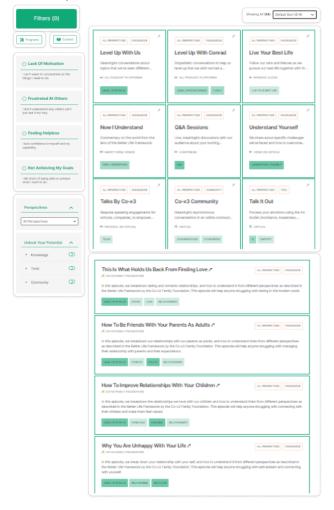

View Sorting Integration:
1. Using Yotube's API, we can fetch real time data and incorporate it on the website.
2. Sorting based on the view count from high to low (as popular content will be more easily accessible, this gives access to new users who are exploring and understanding what Co-x3 is about and what quality content is being provided).

Addressing the programs + content, when filtering content:
There are a few ways to go about it but I believe we can incorporate the default layout always including both programs and contents and then just have two receptive options individually ("Programs" and "Contents") provided in the filter on the left hand side. Below is a concept of how it could potentially look.

Full Default Page Layout (including both Programs + Contents):
